

Doodle your own pigeons in Trafalgar Square.

Did you know, Lord Nelson suffered from seasickness?

Nelson's Column is 52m (about 170ft) tall from the base of the pedestal to the top of Nelson's hat.

Trafalgar Square is one of London's most famous landmarks. It was named after the victory of the British Navy in 1805 at the Battle of Trafalgar. Nelson's Column, at the centre of the square, supports a statue of Horatio Nelson, the British commander who died in the battle. It is guarded by four lions made out of bronze from the cannon of old warships.

There were once more than 30,000 pigeons in Trafalgar Square, but there are far fewer now because people aren't allowed to feed them anymore.
